Tell us about this place. What's the vibe?Getting settled in at Rock Bar, a sprawling open-air complex, can be an ordeal at peak times, but the views are worth it. 180 degrees of aquamarine waves, jagged limestone cliffs, and a sun eager to put on a special light show for Jimbaran Bay spectators. Tunes from renowned DJs add to the vibe. So what's the crowd like?This is arguably Bali's most famous bar. Patrons rock trendy, smart attire (as the dress code commands) and groove to the international DJ du jour. Although the drinks are good, everyone is really here for the bay views—and the bragging rights. Speaking of the drinks—what's on the list?Most cocktails blend familiar tastes with Indonesian ingredients; for instance, Rock My World (with vodka, yuzu puree, kafir leaves) and Rockatonic (with fig gin, orange bitters, and Mancino Bianco vermouth). Prices are sky-high by Bali standards; then again, you're paying for the views.Anything good to eat?The bar bites are easy-going: sushi, spring rolls, taquitos, and chicken wings. Rock Bar also has a full-scale Mediterranean restaurant with dishes like grilled eggplant with feta, vegetarian moussaka, and a delectable lobster orzo with chili peppers, tomato sauce, and ouzo.And how's the service?Rock Bar is a massive operation, and it's easy to imagine the stress of serving so many people. Yet the wait staff and laidback bartenders are all smiles and efficient.So why is this place such an institution on the island?This Bali legend lives up its reputation as the island's ultimate sundowner bar; just be willing to share those majestic ocean views with hundreds of others. One of Bali's most iconic bars, Rock Bar is perched just a few metres above the sparkling Indian Ocean. The only way to reach the bar is by hopping inside an open-air inclinator that takes you down a rock cliff - talk about a dramatic entrance. Located in AYANA Resort, Rock Bar stretches for 270 metres along the seafloor. The bar (designed by Japanese glass artist Seiki Torige) is the main focal point, surrounded by various seating options (sofas, tables, day beds, and countertops) overlooking the water. Designed by Sebastien Bonnefoi, signature cocktails champion Indonesian fruits, herbs, and spices. The best way to cool off from the heat, Rock My World (Rp 225,000), is a refreshing mix of kafir and lemongrass vodka, yuzu puree, pineapple, lemon, and orange. Sunset is the best time to visit, but arrive early to beat the queue at the inclinator. In-house guests enjoy VIP access and prime seats. When we step off, it's like arriving at a sprawling outdoor living room built into the rock. The ocean stretches out endlessly in every direction, and you're right there in it, no matter where you sit. Hill Tram to Rock Bar Bali Dining Area Rock Bar Bali AYANA Estate For over 15 years, Rock Bar Bali has reigned supreme as the island's original cliff bar experience. What began as a small, sunset-soaked hangout has transformed into a sprawling venue capable of hosting up to 880 guests. Here, casual seating winds along the cliff face, ensuring everyone gets an ocean-view seat. As the sun dips below the horizon, gentle lamps bathe the rocks in a warm glow, and the energy transforms into a vibrant party atmosphere, all accompanied by the steady rhythm of waves crashing against the shore. Rock Bar Bali AYANA Estate Simone, the newly appointed mixologist at the helm of Rock Bar Bali's bar, is happy to assist with our drink selection. For Caning, a light and refreshing option, Rock My World (DR 225) is a vibrant concoction featuring kafir lime and lemongrass-infused vodka, yuzu puree, pineapple, and a touch of citrus. For the classic cocktail enthusiast (me) the Rockgroni (DR 225) is a merit-worthy twist on my beloved Negroni. Here, Tanqueray gin meets Campari and bitters, but with the added complexity of sous vide Martini Rosso and a touch of Sunrise Ayana Coffee. A coffee bean garnish adds a playful touch to this sophisticated sipper. (Scroll to the end for the cocktail menu and prices.) Craft Cocktails - Rock My World & Rockgroni The tapas menu at Rock Bar Bali perfectly accompanies our sunset cocktails. Ideal for sharing, there's plenty to nibble on, including a couple of meat-free items. The simply prepared Beef Sliders (IDR 150) come in a trio, featuring juicy patties in soft buns with a mildly zingy tzatziki sauce, tomato, cucumber, and lettuce. For a vegetarian pick, the Summer Rolls (IDR 115) offers a vibrant medley of juliened vegetables and fruit wrapped in soft rice paper, complemented by a sweet and tangy plum dipping sauce. (Scroll to the end for the cocktail menu and prices.) Beef Sliders Summer Rolls As the name suggests, Rock Bar Bali's location begs for a seafood-centric main course. The Grilled Sea Bass (IDR 250) is a solid choice, a perfectly cooked fillet atop a bed of celeriac puree, caramelised onions, and black olives. My pick, Lobster Orzo (IDR 480), gives me both a taste of the sea and the carbs I crave. Succulent local lobster is tossed with orzo pasta, given a whisper of heat from chili peppers, and a rich tomato sauce with bacon bits. Both dishes are presented in cast iron skillets, adding rustic charm to the experience. Grilled Sea Bass Lobster Orzo The true star of the show at Rock Bar Bali is undoubtedly the breathtaking view. Watching the sun melt into the horizon while sipping on expertly crafted cocktails and indulging in delicious tapas is an experience you won't soon forget. So, whether you're a seasoned traveller or a first-time visitor to Bali, Rock Bar Bali is a must-visit destination for panoramic views, tasty food, and vibrant cocktails. However, it doesn't have to end here. AYANA Bali recently expanded its evening entertainment options with the addition of After Rock. This two-story venue has live music performances, a curated cocktail menu, and a variety of spaces for guests to relax or socialise. After Rock is a natural extension of the resort's existing dining options. We head up after our sundowners and dinner at Rock Bar, but it would also make sense post a dinner dining experience in any of the estate's establishments, such as Scusa. The ground-floor stage area hosts renowned DJs, live bands, and star cabaret performers against a mesmerising nine-metre-tall kinetic laser video wall. The mezzanine floor and adjacent VIP Room provide intimate spaces for up to 30 and 25 guests, respectively, with the option to enjoy live entertainment or host private karaoke parties. Take advantage of the rooftop, where you can dine under the stars while gazing at the lush gardens and architectural beauty of the nearby SAKA Museum.
