If you ever see a group of teenagers (or twenty- or thirtysomethings) filming themselves doing literally anything, know this: They're probably making a video to share on TikTok. Its infinite scroll of new videos combines perfectly edited lip-synching, hilarious sketches, and mesmerizing dance moves with delightful special effects and filters. It's hard not to fall in love with everyone's fluffy pets, awkward parents, impressive glow-ups, fails of every kind, and songs and pop-culture references that spark a million memes. Hi there, I've had the app tiktok since I was young and I've seen how much it's grown and changed and developed over the years, and its insane how huge its gotten. Over 170,000,000 AMERICANS use the app, that's not counting any other country like oh my gosh. But I've also seen how basically over the course of five, almost 6 years it's documented my life. I've been able to go back and watch myself grow up into a teenager and its left me speechless. My heart breaks thinking about how today is our last day with this app. And my heart breaks even more knowing that what is essentially my digital diary is just going to disappear in 12 hours. Some may say its just a stupid social media act but no one understanda its platform has helped over 70 million small business flourish aswell has help so many pay the bills and still have some left over and so much more. The tiktok ban was never about our safety from our information being taken or any of that sort, its because it was starting to have to much power. People were realizing that America and the government and supreme court isn't all glitter and sparkles. So its a ploy to have control. I am genuinely devastated about this but I hope someone even if its trump's orange shrimp dikce will pull through and we can AT LEAST get an extension. Anyway, good luck everyone and please download everything that is important to you in this all because it very well could disappear in a matter of hours. I remember downloading tiktok when it was a meme to have it. But I just wanted to check it out. But since 2019, it's been hands down the best app I've ever used. It might sound braindead to even say a sentence like that, but it was legitimately the most fun I've ever had on an app. I was able to find people I could relate to, post that I found funny, issues that mattered to me along with research and evidence that I'd make sure was correct, and overall got content I cared about. I've changed so much these past 6 years, and some of it is due to tiktok. Ive changed my views because I was able to see the perspective of others. And you know what? I don't think that's dumb to say at all. It's not about being chronically online, that's not at all while I'll miss tiktok. I'll miss it because I was able to connect with so many different people. People who've had different views and experiences. Shared their hobby and their culture. Disagreements could be settled so much easier when you realize these are actual people that you're talking to. TikTok brought the whole world closer to each other. I won't miss the app. I'll miss the people and their creativity. Thank you tiktok for giving us the tools we needed to connect with each other. Especially when covid turned our lives upside down. Maybe one day we'll all meet again. But for now this is goodbye. At least we enjoyed it while it lasted.
